

The Katharine Susannah Prichard Writers' Centre is the oldest writers centre of its kind in Australia. The Centre is located in the Perth hills, in the former home of Katharine Susannah Prichard, author of Coonardoo, Working Bullocks and The Goldfields Trilogy. The Centre encourages and facilitates writers' readings, workshops, writers in residence and other services, all designed to help and encourage writers at all levels of the craft.

The Katharine Susannah Prichard Writers' Centre is a dynamic writers' organisation. We are a non-profit group dedicated to supporting, promoting and advocating the needs and interests of writers, and are a member of the WA Writers' Centre. Everyone is welcome to join our activities.

The Heritage listed Centre offers daily, weekly and monthly accommodation for writers wishing to find a space in which to progress a major piece of writing. The Centre funds five Writers in Residence a year and rents accommodation to self-funding writers.

Write-a-Book-in-a-Day is a fundraising initiative of the Katharine Susannah Prichard Writers Centre and Princess Margaret Hospital Foundation. Write-a-Book-in-a-Day is a one-day writing marathon where sponsored teams will write a children's book in a day. Over a six-month period, from April to the end of August the teams of writers will dedicate a day of their choosing to write a children's book in a day.
